Subject: BC transit in town

I just saw Cathy's message saying to write over here to raise my concerns.

I do agree with what she said that the buses are running empty and it's true. I have worked nights for years in this town and have noticed the low numbers of people (4 people on if not less). However, businesses are opening up again with some going back to same late hours as before covid-19 and I'm one of the employees who'll be affected by the new bus schedules. It'd cost me over $25+ to get home to Cheakamus if I were to take a taxi home.

It'd be nice to just have a meeting with all businesses in town to see what business is open past midnight and how many employees have taken the bus in the past or will be taking the bus to get home. I have to say this though, if a restaurant closes at 12, the employee can't just leave it the way it is and run to get the bus, we still need about an hour-ish to clean up and close up everything.

Anyway, I hope the schedule gets reconsidered as we move into phase 3 next week.

Thanks for your consideration.
